

Availability of UDC

The City Council on May 3, 2001 adopted a new Unified Development Code (UDC) effective June 3, 2001. The adopted UDC may be reviewed on the internet at (ci.sat.tx.us/planning) and downloaded to a personal computer for reading and printing. The files are in Microsoft Word format.

The City will not produce hard copies of the code until final editing of spelling and formatting is completed which could be another 3 or 4 months. There are several options for obtaining a hard copy of the UDC (please be advised that the UDC is 859 pages long).

- A. Check out a camera ready copy from Melissa in the Planning Department (207-7941) and print it in-house at your office. (no charge but we request return of the borrowed copy within 5 working days)
- B. Check out a camera ready copy from Melissa in the Planning Department (207-7941) and take it to a printer of your choice. (no charge but we request return of the borrowed copy within 5 working days)
- C. Request a copy from Speedy Print (your cost would be $ 32.85 + tax)

- D. Have a printer of your choice check out a camera copy from our office in order to print one for you. (no charge but we request return of the borrowed copy within 5 working days)

It is recommended that options B, C, or D above be utilized in order that page numbering coincides with city staff copies. This makes it easier to reference specific issues and questions by telephone. Experience indicates that when the UDC is printed directly from the CD or internet, page numbers do not match due to different printer formatting.
